5th Annual
NATIONAL SECURITY BRIEFING

5th Annual
NATIONAL 'In' SECURITY BRIEFING
How Safe Are We Really?

- Is our National Security being compromised to achieve political objectives?
- The real threat of lone and 'known' wolf terrorism.
- Is there a Muslim Brotherhood plan for influencing our political system?
- The real threat of ISIS, Iran and the OIC.
- Is political correctness an obstacle to law enforcement combating terrorism?

Experts from the front line will describe the greatest threats facing our country

Stephen Coughlin is a noted expert on Islamic law, ideology and associated issues relating to terrorism and subversion. He served in various positions in the military developing threat analysis of Islamic Law doctrines for the Pentagon, the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He is a Senior Fellow at the Center for Security Policy and his newly released book Catastrophic Failure: Blindfolding America in the Face of Jihad catalogs his work.

Patrick Poole has been studying, analyzing and investigating terrorism and national security related issues. He has an expertise in the international Muslim Brotherhood and domestic radicalization which is led him to consult with a number of government agencies, law enforcement and military. He does investigative reporting primarily for PJ media and regularly appears on radio and TV.
